PREFACE.

This compilation makes no effort to appear as a literary work, but my sole endeavor has been to gather together as much of the records of the descendants of Isaac Cummings, the emigrant, as could be found during the time I have been engaged in its compilation.

Also, to insert only such as bore evidence that they were reliable and correct, not doubting that errors would be included.

No person who has not made an attempt to trace a line of genealogy can conceive the obstacles to be encountered.

The first records made in the early settlement are of a very crude, superficial character, and difficult to find.

Many of Isaac's early descendants have merely their names, with dates of birth given, when they seem to have disappeared into space or been swallowed by an earthquake, as nothing more has been found, relating to them.

The custom of naming so many children for their fathers has been a fruitful source of confusion very many times, the records not being definite enough to designate which is intended, the father or son.

For the first one hundred years there was no system of indexing records, and then none only in the large towns, thus making a search very difficult, and tedious, as the records of every transaction to be recorded were promiscuously mixed in their order of occurrence, necessitating reading the entire records to find what was desired.

I have many times noted the indifference shown when enquiry was made of Cummingses relative to their ancestors, or descendants, it seeming to be a subject in which they had little, or no, interest; nevertheless I expect I shall be held strictly responsible for any omission, or errors, made in names or dates.

But I am happy to be able to state that I have met or corresponded with many who have seemed to take great interest in the work, and rendered valuable service, and thanks are due to my many friends who have ably and willingly assisted in supplying records.

Notably among them are George Francis Dow, Sec'y of the Essex Institute, Salem, Mass., Kimball Webster, Hudson, N. H., Henry Poole Saunderson, Manchester, N. H., William H. Ballou, Providence, R. I., J. Frank Bancroft, Tyngsboro, Mass., William Freeman Sparrow Cummings, Atlantic, Mass., Robert N. Adams, Portland, Me., Miss Nellie L. Morse, Portland, Me., Walter Davidson, Worcester, Mass., Miss Alice J. Cummings, Painsville, O., Hon. Henry H. Cummings, Tidiout, Pa., Joseph H. Pullen, Houma, La., Charles H. Danforth, Boston, Mass., Ezra S. Stearns, Fitchburg, Mass., Charles H. Cummings, New York City, Luther Bradley Cummings, Cape May City, N. J., Charles Bradley Cummings, Boston, Mass., and W. H. Child and Fenno B. Cummings, of Cornish, N. H.

Also to many others in various parts of the country, too numerous to be personally designated, who have willingly and ably contributed matter which gives interest and worth to the compilation.

A. O. CUMMINS.

Montpelier, Vt., March 4th, 1904.

EXPLANATION.

The small index figure placed above a name indicates the generation from Isaac, the first emigrant, thus: William Cummings,⁴ signifies that he was of the 4th generation, i. e., a great-grandson of Isaac, the emigrant.

When two or more index figures are placed above one name it signifies that the name occurs two or more times, thus: Isaac,¹ John,^{2,3} Ebenezer,⁴ should be read, Isaac,¹ John,² John,³ Ebenezer,⁴ thus avoiding a repetition of "John."

Names in italics and enclosed in parenthesis, following a name, are the names of the ancestors, in the order of births, thus: Cyrus Cummings⁵ (Jonathan,⁴ Thomas,³ John,² Isaac¹), is read: Cyrus Cummings,⁵ son of Jonathan,⁴ son of Thomas,³ son of John,² son of Isaac,¹ the emigrant.

The abbreviations used signify, b., born, m., married, d., died, dau., daughter, bapt., infant baptism, which comes from Church Records, when no record of date of birth could be found, pub., published, m. int., marriage intentions, rem., removed, res., resides, res'd, resided, unm., unmarried, ch. rec., church records.

The numerals at head of a family is their family number or paragraph.

The numbers on the left hand margin of the pages, preceding the names, is the family number, or paragraph, of the man before whose name it is placed and will be found farther along in the book in its numerical order, where his family is tabulated.

Wherever the maiden surname of a married woman occurs, it is enclosed in parenthesis, thus: John Cummings, m. Sept. 13, 1680, Elizabeth, dau. of Samuel and Hannah (Bracket) Kinsley; i. e., the maiden name of the bride was Elizabeth Kinsley, and the maiden name of her mother was Hannah Bracket. (See No. 4 on page 5.)

Whenever the surname of a female Cummings changes, by marriage, her family, if known, is duly recorded under the new name, but no effort is made to trace her descendants farther; although when known, occasionally another generation is given.

The order of birth of families of children is designated by numbering before each name, wherever the name is Cummings, Roman figures are used as I., V., and where the name is other than Cummings, Arabic numerals are used, as 1, 5, etc.

N. B. The figures in the index do not refer to pages, but to family numbers, or paragraphs; thus, in Nathaniel Cummings 49 (on page 61) his name will be found between 49 and 50, occupying less space than one page, but with the name Gilman Taylor Cummings 90, on page 121, his name appears between 90 and 91, which occupies more than one page.

INTRODUCTORY.

In the year 1610 the church of Rev. John Robins of England having become dissatisfied with the English laws regarding church government emigrated to Leyden, Holland, where a portion became equally dissatisfied with their surroundings, and again agitated a change, which resulted in less than one-half of their number deciding to emigrate to the unexplored shores of America. Accordingly a vessel was procured in 1620 and they returned to the mother country, where they arrived on July 2nd, 1620.

Having engaged another vessel, the Mayflower, they, on Sept. 6th, embarked for America, where they arrived on the 11th of the following November, landing at the noted "Plymouth Rock."

Occasional tramp vessels visited the new colony, bringing a few additional settlers, but with the great mortality incident to the hardships they encountered, and the severity of our rigorous New England winters to which they were unaccustomed, with the inroads made upon them by the savage Indians, their numbers increased but little for the next few years, until in 1627 when another colony was formed and came over to America.

These landed at Salem and commenced another settlement there and in what are now the adjoining towns of Topsfield and Ipswich, in Essex Co. There is no log of the vessel on which this colony came, therefore the names of its passengers cannot be ascertained, but among them, doubtless, was Isaac Cummings. He was the first Cummings whom I have been able to learn emigrated to New England.

In a deposition made by him in March, 1666, he gave his age as 65 years, thus establishing his birth in 1601. The Probate Records of Essex county show copy of his last will and testament, dated "8th of 3d mth., 1677," also an inventory filed "this 22 Maye 1677", and his will was probated June 14, 1677, thus establishing his death between "8th of 3d mth., and Maye 22, 1677."

Of his wife nothing is known, except that she died before him, no mention being made of her in his will, but he left four children as will be seen later.

The spelling of the name has long been a bone of contention, and I have found it spelled in all of the following ways: Cumin, Cummin, Cumins, Cummins, Cumens, Cummens, Cuming, Cumming, Cumings, Cummings, Comens, Comins, Comen, Coming, Comings, Commings.

The last is the spelling used by Joseph Cummings (number "24," this book, b. in 1689, and died in 1729), in making a record of his living children, as appears by ac simile in connection with his genealogy in this book. The original record is in my possession, having been handed down to me through five consecutive generations, covering over 175 years. Until some one produces an older Cummings record, made by the man himself, I shall claim this the oldest one in existence.

It being next to impossible for me to give each person, and family, their own personal spelling, or to tell when, or by whom the several changes have been made, I have adopted the uniform spelling of Cummings, as it is the spelling of much more than one-half of all the records I have been able to collect, leaving us all to continue our usual mode of spelling, without prejudice.

Another much mooted question is from whence Isaac came, and his nationality. I will say from all my researches in that direction I have failed to find a single scrap of record evidence tending to establish either fact, but have found very much of tradition, which I give in part, but as tradition only.

TRADITIONS.

Isaac Cummings, according to tradition, was of Scottish ancestry, claiming descent from the "Red Cumin," of Badenoch, in the southeastern district of Inverness-shire, a wild, mountainous country, presenting wide stretches of bleak moorland. Here the clan flourished from 1080 to 1330, and then began to decline. Some deduce their origin from Normandy and others from Northumberland. According to the Chronicle of Melrose, the first of the name who figured prominently, was slain with Malcom III., at Alnwick, in 1093, leaving two sons, John and William. From John, all the Cumins in Scotland are said to be descended. Sir John, the Red Cumin or Comyn, was the first Lord of Badenoch, and in 1240 was an ambassador from Alexander II to Louis IX, of France.

His son John, called the Black Lord of Badenoch, was inferior to no subject in Scotland for wealth and power, and was one of those who vowed to support Queen Margaret, daughter of Alexander III., in her title to the crown. At her death he became a competitor for the crown of Scotland, "as the son and heir of John, who was son and heir of Donald, King of Scotland." The son of this Lord, called, in turn, the Red Cumin, was the last Lord of Badenoch of the surname of Cumin.

In 1335 a number of Cumin clan was slain in the feudal battle of Culbleau, in Glenwick, where a stone now marks the spot.

The badge of the clan, in Gaelic, was "Lus Mhic Cuiminn," in English, the Cummin plant.

Another tradition runs: Comines—Comynges—Comyns—Comings—Cumyn—Cumings—Cummings; "a family which rose to great power and eminence in Scotland and England. The name was taken from the town of Comines near Lille, on the frontier between France and Belgium.

In 1445 one branch of the family gave birth, in the old chateau, to the historian, Phillipe de Comines. Another branch followed William of Normandy to the conquest of England.

In the year 1069, Robert of Comines, or Comyn, with 700 horse from William the Conqueror, seized Durham and held it 48 hours, but the people rose up against him and he perished in the flames at the burning of the Bishop's Palace.

His nephew, William, became Chancellor of Scotland in 1133. The Chancellor's nephew, Richard, inherited the English possessions of the family and married the Countess of Athol, grand-daughter of Donald Bane, King of Scots, and his son, William, in 1210, became Earl of Buchan by marrying the Celtic heiress of the North Earldom.

By this marriage he became the father of Elexander, Earl of Buchan, who married the daughter of Roger-de Quenci, Earl of Winchester.

By other marriages the family obtained the Earldom of Angus and Athol, so that by the middle of the 13th Century there were in Scotland one Lord, four Earls, and thirty-two belted Knights by the name of Comyns.

Within 70 years this great house was entirely overthrown, there were none left of them, save those who took refuge in the "Monks of Deer," a monastery founded in 1219 by William Cumyns, Earl of Buchan.

John Cumyns, son of the Earl of Badenoch, who was in 1291 an unsuccessful competitor for the crown, was a descendant of Donald Bane, king of the old Celtic dynasty. John Cumyns, Earl of Buchan, was defeated by Bruce in a pitched battle in 1306.

Such of the Cumyns as escaped the sword found refuge with their wives and children in England, where, although they were so poor as to be dependent upon the bounty of the English Court, they married into the best families, so that their blood circulated through the nobles in other kingdoms and descendants of Henry IV.

The Earl of Shrewsbury was the representative of the Lord of Badenoch, who was at the head of the race."

Another tradition is from an educated American, who spent much time in Rome. "The Cummings family is a very old family; as far as can be gathered, the family lived in Lombardy, northern Italy during, and prior to the fourth century, it then came over the Alps, and settled in Provence, and then went to the Gironde country in the southern part of France, and thence to the north of France, on the borders of Belgium, where was founded the town of Commines, where lived Phillip of Commines, whom Hallan called the father of Ancient History, thence they went to Scotland and England and Ireland.

An educated native of Rome insists that the original family of Commines was a family once well known in Lombardy, that he had traced them to France, and it is a fact established by ancient history that they were a strong family during the great "Hearth" war, which lasted for many years, and that Earl de Cummings was perhaps the principal factor in bringing on and continuing the war. History tells us they went to England about the time of the invasion by William the Conqueror," etc.

Although these traditions are given as such, it will be noticed that they carry many indications of having been compiled by fertile brains from the many historical books extant.

I too well recollect of my grandfather, who was born in 1768, caressing me, in my childhood and calling me "a little Scotchman," and a large majority of the traditions, and circumstantial evidence, strongly indicate that we are of Scotch descent. From what I have learned in the six years of my researches of the Cummings records, I have formed the opinion that Isaac came to America from England, but that he was of Scotch origin, though all my efforts to make a connection with his ancestors have been futile.

In the second tradition given is a mention of the historian, "Phillipe de Comins," and there was published in Paris in 1552 a French work on a man of that name, at the close, or end, of which are many genealogical Comines trees, and I have made considerable effort to obtain a copy of the book, but it being out of print, have not been able to secure one. Also, some 150 or more years ago there was published in England a Commins genealogy, but that is also out of print.

I have had an order for the last three years, with Bernard Quaritch, 15 Picadilly, London, a dealer in rare and ancient books, for a copy of the English Commins genealogy, but he has been unable to secure one. My personal researches have been confined to our American records of Historical, Genealogical, and Antiquarian Societies, Public Libraries, Civil and Probate Court records, Church, and Town records, and a very exhaustive correspondence for several years; with visits to cemeteries and ancient "grave yards," in localities where the descendants of Isaac Cummings are known to have lived and died, and I have decided to go to press with the following records, leaving the collection of the missing records of other descendants of Isaac for a younger man. The first mention in Essex County records of Isaac Cummings, is an entry made by the town clerk of Watertown, where his name appears in the records of land grants, as receiving a grant of 35 acres in the earliest general land grants in 1636; called the "Great Dividends." Also we find a record made by the Town Clerk at Ipswich, showing that he owned a planting lot near Reedy marsh, in that town, previous to July 25, 1638.

On the 9th of the 2nd month, 1639, he also owned a house lot in Ipswich village, on the street called the East End, next the lot owned by Rev. Nathaniel Rogers. He was a commoner in 1639, and the same year sold land near the highway leading to Jeffrey's Neck. He also possessed, in 1639, land adjoining John Winthrop and William Goodhue, the farm being partly in Ipswich and partly in Topsfield. He was made a freeman, May 18, 1642, and was a proprietor in Watertown the same year, and at Topsfield afterward, where he was one of 30 commoners.

As an Ipswich commoner he was one of those "that have right of commonage there the last of the last month, 1641."

On the first day of the second month, 1652, Isaac Cummings, for £30, bought of Samuel Symonds, 150 acres of land, "being the North-east corner of his farm called Ollivers." This lot of land was in Topsfield and bounded on the west and north-west by land lately of John Winthrop, on the south and west by land of Francis Peabody, and on the south by land of Daniel Clark.

This farm began at what is known as the Hobbs-Bell place, and continued down both sides of the brook, then called "Winthropps," to what is now called Howlett's brook, one hundred acres lying on the westerly side, and fifty acres on the easterly side, probably joining other land belonging to him.

The Essex county court records have the following items:

Goodman Isaac Cummings, of Topsfield, had suit brought against him by John Fuller, March 28, 1654.

Isaac Comings, sen^r., was witness against Wm. Douglas, March, 1656.

Isaac Commins, sen^r., was sued for debt by Zerobabell Phillips, of Ipswich, March, 1657.

Isaac Cummings, sen^r., brought suit against John Fuller for damage done in his corn by swine belonging to said Fuller, Dec. 31, 1656. etc.

Isaac Cummings was chosen grand juryman in 1675 and was moderator of the Town Meeting in 1676. He was deacon of the church in Topsfield for many years.

JOHN CUMMINGS,² (*Isaac*¹) b.—, 1630, m. Sarah, dau. of Ensign Thomas and Alice (French) Howlett of Ipswich, Mass. He received by his father's will, the homestead, consisting of 40 acres, with houses, barns, orchards and fences, and in 1680 sold the same to Edward Nealand. (Kneeland). This farm was bounded by land of the above Nealand, and by Tobijah Perkins and the Ipswich common land. About 1658 he removed to Boxford. He was made freeman in 1673. Both he and his wife were members of the church in Topsfield, Dec. 7, 1685; "voted dismission to John Cummings without commendation and dismissed his wife with commendation to the church to be shortly gathered at Dunstable."—(Topsfield Church Records.) He removed with his family to Dunstable, Mass. about 1680, where he was one of the first settlers. He was a selectman in 1682, and a member of the church in 1684. He died Dec. 1, 1700, and his wife died Dec. 7, 1700.

DEA. WILLIAM CUMMINGS,⁴ (John,^{3,2} Isaac,¹) b. Apr. 24, 1702; m. Sarah, dau. of William and Esther (—) Harwood, b. in Dunstable, June 26, 1706. He was in the second expedition of the famous Capt. John Lovewell, with his cousin Josiah Cummings⁴ against the Pequavket Indians that left Dunstable, Jan. 29, 1725, and which triumphantly marched into Dover, and later into Boston with ten Indian scalps stretched on hoops and elevated on poles, for which they received a bounty of £100 for each scalp. William and Josiah were both also in the party of Capt. Lovewell, in his last and fatal expedition that left Dunstable about the 16th day of April, 1725, O. S. or April 27, N. S., which numbered 46 men. The following from Potter's History of Manchester, i. e.,—"When out but a short time, Toby a friendly Indian, attached to the expedition, becoming lame was sent back with great reluctance on his part. At Contoocook, William Cummings, of Dunstable, become so lame in consequence of a wound received from the enemy sometime previous, that he was obliged to return home, a kinsman, possibly Josiah Cummings, returning with him to assist him on his way." He settled in that part of Dunstable east of the Merrimack river, now Hudson, his farm lying upon said river. He d. Aug. 29, 1757, and his wife d.—, 1769.

EPHRAIM CUMMINGS,⁴ (Thomas,³ John,² Isaac,¹) b. Mar. 10, 1706; m. 1732, Elizabeth, dau. of Deacon John and Elizabeth Butler of Pelham, N. H., b. in Woburn, Mass., Sept. 4, 1704. He settled on land in the south easterly part of what is now Hudson, that was originally laid out to his father Thomas,³ as a part of his share of the common lands of Dunstable—he being one of the Proprietors of the township. Ephraim⁴ settled here probably a short time prior to the incorporation of the town of Nottingham—he being assessed in Nottingham West, from 1733, the date of incorporation to 1770, inclusive. He was one of the prominent, early citizens of the town of Nottingham West. He was moderator of annual town meetings for several years, was a member of the board of selectmen seven years, and was delegate to the General Court of New Hampshire, in 1760. We find no record of the death of Ephraim⁴ or of that of his wife Elizabeth. He died about Mar. 9th, 1771, as by the diary of Nathaniel Merrill, he made his coffin, and he gave the date of the funeral, as Mar. 11, 1771.

NOTE.—Nathaniel,⁴ had dau. Elizabeth that married Asa Davis. We have birth of only one Elizabeth recorded as far as we know, yet the death, date and age of this record does not agree with the above birth date. Query—Did the first Elizabeth die and was a second dau. named the same, or has an error been made in her age at the time of her death? (as in 'the age of Capt. John, No. 16, the grave stone says he was 75 yrs. old when he died, which would make his birth about two years before his father was married.)

CAPT. JOSEPH CUMMINGS,⁴ (*Abraham*³, *John*², *Isaac*¹) b. in Woburn Sept. 1, 1692; m. Dec. 1, 1714, Sarah, dau. of Isaac and Abigail (Kimball) Estey. She d. 1749-50 and he m. 2d Nov. 11, 1751, Priscilla Lamson. She d. Aug. 19, 1780. At the age of twelve, tradition says, he came to Topsfield to live with Thomas Howlett, whose wife was Rebecca Cummings, and by whom he was adopted. In 1715 he received by deed the farm east of the Ipswich River, in "thick woods," of recent years known as the Smith farm. He d. Apr. 22, 1794; aged 102 years. To the last his memory was strong and exact—his judgment clear and sound—his retorts equally clear and keen. He had strong mental powers and inquisitive turn of mind, and a tenacious memory had enabled him to acquire and retain a good knowledge of the principal events and public transactions of the last hundred years. Possessed of a rich fund of interesting and entertaining anecdotes, he was a living history of nearly a century. When nearly an hundred, he would readily mount a horse from the ground; and his reason continued to his last moments. Satisfied with living, and with little appearance of any disease than senility, he closed this mortal scene, in the cheerful hope of a blessed immortality. His descendants were two children, 23 grand-children, 116 great-grand-children and 32 great-great-grand-children. Total 173.

CAPT. DEA. JACOB CUMMINGS,⁴ (*Abraham*³, *John*², *Isaac*¹) b. in Woburn Jan. 3, 1695; m. Mar. 28, 1716, Martha (Brook) in Killingly, Conn. She d. about 1719, and he m. 2d.

Nov. 9, 1720, Abigail (Wilson) in Killingly, Conn. From the church records is taken, "An account of their names who have been received into full communion," "22 Sept. 1716, Jacob Cumins and Martha, his wife." His second wife joined the church in Killingly in 1726. He removed to Ware, Mass. (about 1739-41), soon after the first settlements were made, and was the most prominent man in the Precinct and town for many years. He was one of the first deacons in the church, one of the building committee, was moderator at the first meeting of the Parish, was one of the Precinct committee, and when the town was incorporated in 1762, one of the first board of selectmen and town treasurer. He bought, probably of Stewart Southgate, the farm now owned by Joel Rice, Esq., and the one owned by his great-grandson, the Hon. Joseph Cummings. He d. Feb. 27, 1776, in Ware, Mass.

He seems to have married a second time, for at the time of his death his widow, Mary, declined to administer on the estate, and his brother Josiah, of Litchfield, was appointed Nov. 19, 1735, administrator instead. Daniel Proctor, of Chelmsford, brother of deceased widow, Rachel, was appointed guardian of the two children. Eleazer, of "Actown," one of these, selected the same person as his guardian Dec. 17, 1845, as did Abraham, of "Chelmsford," Aug. 29, 1848. Mr. Proctor made report of his guardianship in 1751. Mr. Cummings was assessed in the years 1733, 34 and 35. His estate at the proving of the will, is described, as "a holmstead of 55 acres and one-third of 20 acres of meadow—" part of the Joseph Hills farm.

COPY OF A RECORD FROM ESTEY GENEALOGY.

*Abigail Estey was the daughter of Isaac and Abigail (Kimball) Estey, bapt. Jan. 8, 1692-3, in Topsfield, Mass. Her father, Isaac Estey, was a son of Isaac and Mary (Towne) Estey, (and he was a son of Jeffrey Estey,) and was probably born in England previous to the year 1630. and was quite young at the time of his father's settlement in Salem. He was a cooper by occupation, and the first mention of him is "2-5-1653, Job Hilliard, of Salem, fisherman, hath sold to Isake Esty of Salem, cooper, one house and land adjoining, being nearly half an acre for 20 li. to be paid as follows, 6 li. on the 15th. October next, in Codfish or caske, 8 li. on the 15th. October 1654 in fish or mackerel, 6 li. ye 15th October 1655, in fish or mackerel, or Job to have the house and land again as by deed dated 19-5-1653."

Mary Towne was born at Yarmouth, Norfolk Co., England, and baptized at St. Nicholas church, Aug. 24, 1634. We know but little of her life till 1692 when that terrible witchcraft delusion spread over Salem Village and vicinity. Among those to fall a victim was Mary Estey. Her sister, Rebecca Nurse, about thirteen years older, had previously been accused, found guilty and executed on July 19, 1692. Mary Estey was arrested Apr. 21, 1692, kept in jail till May 18, when she was released. On May 21, a second warrant was procured and she was taken from her home at midnight, carried to Salem jail and placed in chains. She was tried, found guilty and condemned to death, and on the 22d of September, 1692, she was executed with seven others.

She was the mother of nine children, a woman of sound judgment and exalted Christian character. In intelligence she was far in advance of her age, as the following petition, written while in prison, amply bears testimony:

"The Humble Petition of Mary Easty unto his Excellency Sir

William Phips, and to the Honored Judge and Bench now sitting in Judicature in Salem, and the Reverend Ministers, humbly showeth, that, whereas, your poor and humble petitioner, being condemned to die, do humbly beg of you to take it in your judicious and pious consideration that your poor and humble petitioner, knowing my own innocency, blessed be the Lord for it; and seeing plainly the wiles and subtily of my accusers by myself, cannot but judge charitably of others that are going the same way of myself, if the Lord steps not mightily in.

I was confined a whole month upon the same account that I am condemned now for, and then cleared by the afflicted persons, as some of Your Honors know. And in two days' time I was cried out upon them, and have been confined, and now am condemned to die. The Lord above knows my innocency then, and likewise does now, as at the great day will be known to men and angels. I petition to Your Honors not for my own life, for I know I must die, and my appointed time is set; but the Lord he knows it is that, if it be possible, no more innocent blood may be shed, which undoubtedly cannot be avoided in the way and course you go in. I question not but Your Honors do to the utmost of your powers in the discovery and detecting of witchcraft and witches, and would not be guilty of innocent blood for the world.

But, by my own innocency, I know your are in the wrong way. The Lord in his infinite mercy direct you in this great work, if it be his blessed will that no more innocent blood be shed; I would humbly beg you, that Your Honors would be pleased to examine these afflicted persons strictly, and keep them apart some time, and likewise to try some of these confessing witches; I being confident there is several of them has belied themselves and others, as will appear if not in this world, I am sure in the world to come, whither I am now going.

I question not but you will see an alteration of these things.

They say myself and others, having made a league with the Devil, we cannot confess. I know, and the Lord knows, as will * * * appear, they belie me, and so I question not but they do others. The Lord above, who is the Searcher of all hearts, knows, as I shall answer it at the tribunal seat, that I know not the lest thing of witchcraft; therefore I cannot, I dare not, belie my own soul. I beg Your Honors not to deny this my humble petition from a poor, dying, innocent person. And I question not but the Lord will give a blessing to your endeavors."

· She asked not for her own life; only that other innocent blood might not be shed, and for this unconsciousness of self has been called "the self-forgetful." After sentence was executed Isaac Estey did not weakly submit to what seemed to be inevitable, with a keen sense of justice and a recognition of his duties to the martyred wife, he bore in mind the fact that upon him devolved the responsibility of doing all in his power to rescue her name from reproach and his children from disgrace.

After nearly twenty long years had passed away he was in a measure successful; the petitions which he presented to the court were recognized; the verdict annulled, and twenty pounds granted him, in acknowledgment of the injustice of the previous decision.

WITCHCRAFT.

Dr. Palfrey, in his history of New England says, "The people of Massachusetts in the seventeenth century, like all other Christian people at that time, at least with extremely rare individual exceptions, believed in the reality of a hideous crime called witchcraft.

They thought that they had Scripture for that belief, and knew they had law for it, explicit and abundant; and with them law and Scripture were two absolute authorities for the regulation of opinion and conduct.

That belief was common among all men from the most learned to the uneducated. Pope Inocent VIII, in 1484, issued a bull punishing the crime of witchcraft with death. Martin Luther also had the same belief in an intensified degree and wrote "I would have no compassion on these witches—I would burn them all." Bishop Jewell, preaching before Queen Elizabeth, said "May it please your Grace to understand that, witches and sorcerers, within these few years, are marvelously increased in your Grace's realm."

Lord Bacon, one of the leaders of his day, pronounced "the three declinations from religion" to be "heresies, idolatry and witchcraft."

In 1664 Sir Matthew Hale, afterward Lord Chief Justice of England, sentencing two women to be hanged, said that "the reality of witchcraft was unquestionable," and he was supported in this belief by Sir Thomas Brown, who was present at their trial.

The popular commentary on English law in the seventeenth century, which was the current law manual in New England, recognized witchcraft as a real crime. John Wesley said in 1768 that "giving up witchcraft is, in effect, giving up the Bible."

During Cromwell's time sixty witches were hanged in a single year in Suffolk county, England. The records show that not less than three thousand were executed in England, while the whole number put to death in the Salem tragedy was but nineteen.

There also appears a record of a woman of Donrock, Scotland, being burned for witchcraft, and still another of Switzerland, as late as 1780 by which we are informed that "women are burned for the imputed offence."

The following abstract is from Sabine's "Loyalists of the American Revolution":—"After the departure of Col. Prescott's Regiment of 'Minute Men,' Mrs. David Wright, of Pepperell, Mrs. Jos. Shattuck, of Groton, and the neighboring women collected at what is now Jewett's bridge, over the Nashua River, between Pepperell and Groton, clothed in their absent husband's apparel, and armed with muskets, pitchforks and such other weapons as they could find, and having elected Mrs. Wright their commander, resolutely determined that no foe to freedom, foreign or domestic, should pass that bridge." * * * "Soon there appeared Mr. Leonard Whiting on horse-back, supposed to be treasonably engaged in carrying intelligence to the enemy. Whiting, by direction of Mrs. Wright in her assumed character of Sergeant of the Bridge Guard, was seized, taken from his horse, searched and detained a prisoner. Despatches were found in his boots, which were sent to the Committee of Safety, and Whiting himself was committed to the custody of the Committee of Observation of Groton." * * * "There now stands at the place where the incident took place a stone 2½ feet by 3½ or 4 feet, with this inscription:—'Near this spot a party of patriotic women, under the leadership of Mrs. David Wright, of Pepperell, in April, 1775, captured Leonard Whiting, a tory who was carrying treasonable despatches to the enemy at Boston. He was taken a prisoner to Groton and the despatches were sent to the Committee of Safety at Cambridge.' " She d. Dec. 2, 1823. He d. May 22, 1819. Prudence Wright Chapter, D. A. When the news of the discovery of gold in California reached New England, he started and traveled across the then unexplored country, arriving in Sacramento valley in October, six months having passed on the long journey. He remained there less than two years, engaged in mining and other pursuits, when he went to Oregon, where he was a Deputy Surveyor on Government surveys, and returned home in the fall of 1854. In 1855 he was employed by the Hannibal St. Jo Railroad Co., since which he has res'd in Hudson, where he owns and occupies a part of the same land purchased by his great-grandfather, Eleazer Cummings,⁴ in 1728. Mr. Webster has been a successful surveyor and civil engineer; he has had extensive practice in probate business; He has held nearly all the important offices within the gift of the town, among which was the representation of the town in the Legislature in both branches, often being elected, when in the minority political party, owing to his popularity. He has been a large contributor to this work and a very accurate compiler. He had a family of ten ch. *

JACOB CUMMINGS,⁵ (Joseph,⁴ John,³ Isaac,²¹) b. May 12, 1717, in Topsfield, Mass.; m. Jan. 21, 1740, in Sutton, Mary, dau. of Freegrace and Mary (Sibley) Marble, b. Apr. 4, 1721. At the age of twelve years, he was left an orphan, his father and mother having suddenly d. with small-pox. At the death of the parents, the children were placed under guardianship, and on coming of age, at different times, sold their shares in the estate, so that the homestead passed out of the family name. At the age of sixteen years, he went to Sutton and res'd with relatives there. He was a "house-wright" by trade. He is buried in the old cemetery behind the present Town Hall. His lot is situated between the Dike family monument and the Rifenger family lot, on which is a very permanent headstone. There is quite a space with plain indications of several graves, at the head of one of which is a slate headstone in perfect condition marked "Miss Anna, dau. of Jacob and Mary Cummings, died Oct. 4, 1794, in the 37th year of her age," thus establishing the identity of Jacob's family lot; although there had evidently never been placed anything but this lone marker on the lot. Under the above inscription are these two lines:

"Stop passenger and cast an eye,
For here remember you must die."

His wife d. July 10, 1799. He d. Oct. 13, 1814, aged 97 years, 5 months and one day.

CAPT. JOTHAM CUMMINGS,⁶ (Jarahmacl,⁵ Samuel,⁴ John,³⁻² Isaac,¹) b. in Hollis, Dec. 29, 1741; m. Apr. 27, 1763, Anna, dau. of Josiah and Anna Brown, of Hollis, b. Oct. 23, 1744. He rem. to Plymouth, N. H., in 1764, having been there the year previous and prepared for his family. Ebenezer Samuel, Esq., Samuel Williams and Jotham were among the original grantees of Plymouth. The charter for Plymouth was granted July 15, 1763. A son says "My mother rode through from Hollis on horse back, brought a child on her lap, and baggage which contained all her furniture to keep house with. Their sufferings for a few of the first years, were most distressing. They had to go to the meadows and pull wild onions, and fry them in the fat of bears' meat, to subsist upon, without a morsel of bread. My father, with others, went to Concord on snow shoes, with hand sleds, and drew up three bushels of corn meal each; and for a number of years—as late as the Revolutionary war—I well remember how good a piece of bread tasted, after being without it for three weeks. Most of the efficient men were gone to meet the invading army of Burgoyne, and left their wives and children to be a prey to wild beasts and tories, etc." He was a soldier in the French war, 1755, and marched to Crown Point in 1760, and was a lieutenant in a company of N. H. Rangers in the war of the Revolution. They were members of the Congregational Church in Plymouth, being admitted before 1800. He rem. to Rum-

THOMAS CUMMINGS,⁷ (Thomas,⁶ Samuel,⁵⁴ John,³² Isaac,¹) b. in Hollis, Nov. 1, 1776; m. Mary, dau. of Caleb and Sarah (Trask) Whitney, b. in Bradford, Mass., May 21, 1778; she d. in Ludlow, Vt., Dec. 1, 1850; he d. in Hollis, N. H., Feb. 10, 1843. On May 7, 1804, he purchased a house on the Main street in Hollis; a two-story front was added, and "the old homestead," a finely preserved mansion standing well back from the street, is still in the family, Mrs. Elizabeth S. Russell, a grand daughter, being the owner and occupant. From "Hollis Seventy Years Ago" the following pen picture is taken. Thomas Cummings was in many respects a typical New England man. Though thoroughly "matter of fact" in disposition, he had also a strong religious bent. There was no mirthfulness in his composition, but there was nothing austere or repelling. To his earnest goodness life seemed too serious and sacred for anything but active duty. Few men have ever made a stronger impression upon my mind of genuine goodness and integrity. His stout, rather large, though not tall, figure always seemed to me good all over. He followed the trade of shoemaking, but was also a small farmer, and for some years acted as sexton. The boots and shoes which he made were of the most substantial kind, and if he told you the leather was oak tanned, you might be sure it was.

The wife and mother who presided over his home, was among the best in Hollis. The children were numerous, well trained, and an honor to their parents. * * I think if Mr. Cummings had been in the company of "John Bunyan" he would have called him "Thomas, the Faithful and True." He was selectman in 1823-4.

Aug. 16, 1817, of Pilgrim stock, being of the seventh generation from William White (through Peregrine) and from Francis Cooke, both Mayflower passengers in 1620. In early life she was a writer for the press, and among her productions was one entitled "He doeth all things well," which was set to music, and became a popular song fifty years ago. She held numerous offices within the societies with which she was connected. He was a grad. (with honor) of Dartmouth College in 1842, also grad. of Andover Theological Seminary, 1846; principal of Medford, Mass., High School, 1846 to 1876; was chosen as the best qualified among the many applicants to fill the vacant chair of principal in 1846, and continued in that position until the infirmity of deafness had so increased that he felt that duty required him to resign. During the thirty years he held the position, and in the academies and other schools in which he gave instruction previously, it is estimated that fully 1,500 pupils have received instruction from him. Large as have been the results, intellectually considered, of Mr. Cummings' labors as an instructor, it cannot be questioned that the example of his pure life and unselfish devotion to duty has been of even greater value to his pupils. Few men can look back upon a career of more uninterrupted usefulness, and few have a stronger hold upon the love and respect of the community in which they live. H., and grad. from Harvard College in 1864. He acted as principal of the Portland High School the following year, and then began the study of law with—now, (1898)—U. S. District Judge Nathan Webb, the following fall entered Harvard Law School, and was unexpectedly appointed tutor in Latin, in charge of the Sophomore Class until the winter of 1870, when he entered a law office in Boston. He grad. from Harvard Law School, and was admitted to the Boston Bar in 1870 and commenced practice. In 1874 he was appointed chief assistant to the U. S. Attorney in Boston, having almost exclusive charge of the legal business of the government in that important district until 1880. In the years 1881, '82 and '83, he represented the principal business ward of Boston in the Common Council, and in 1884 and '85 was a member of the Legislature. Was elected president, in 1885, of the Cambridge Railroad, and when the road consolidated as the West End Company in 1887 he became vice president until 1897, when it was leased to the Boston Elevated, and since has been advisory counsel, his corporate duties being chiefly legal. His home is in Brookline, where he is a trustee of Mt. Auburn Cemetery Association, of the Public Library, and local Savings Bank, and chairman of the school committee. Has held many social and other offices, and is a member of the "Society of the Cincinnati." "It thus appears probable that in the next generation the original settler of Sumner will have no descendants bearing the name of Cummings."

ELISHA CUMMINGS,⁷ (Daniel,⁶ Jacob,⁵ Joseph,⁴ John,³ Isaac,^{2,1}) b. in Auburn, Mass., Jan. 22, 1768; m. Feb. 3, 1796, Rachel, dau. of William and Sarah (Bellows) Eddy, of Oxford, where she was b. Nov. 7, 1769. Her father was a Revolutionary soldier. (Daniel's hist. of Oxford, p. 493.) They went to Montpelier, Vt., where he had been living several years, engaged in clearing up a farm from the almost unbroken forest. The journey, occupying over two weeks, was made with an ox team, on which was all their outfit for housekeeping. The last thirty or forty miles was through a dense forest, with nothing to guide them, except "blazed" trees. The first record of Mr. Cummings in Montpelier, is in 1791, when he purchased "Lot No. 44 in the second division of lots in said town of Montpelier, containing 120 acres, the consideration being Forty pounds lawful money" etc. The first town meeting ever convened, was at the dwelling house of Col. Jacob Davis, on the 29th day of Mar., 1791; as shown by the records. Accompanying this record we find the names of the voters who acted in thus organizing the town, and who, as the record leads us to infer, constituted the whole number of its freemen at that time, there being twenty-seven in number, among which appears the name of Elisha Cummings. On page sixty of the "History of Montpelier, Vt.," by Hon. Daniel P. Thompson, occurs the following, "Of all this enterprising and intelligent band, twenty-seven in number, so distinguished by the circumstances as the founders and first freemen of Montpelier, but one, it is sad to reflect, but one, at the time we are penning this page, (Nov. 15, 1859,) alone remains alive; the venerable Elisha Cummings who, at the age of ninety-two, still resides with his family consisting of several of his children and grand children, on his original homestead, two miles east of Montpelier village. But they nearly all still live, and their numerous descendants, who now constitute, probably, a majority of the inhabitants of the united town of Montpelier." A few years later when the town was divided into districts for schools, we note that it was done by a committee of three, on which appears the names of Elisha Cummings, and his brother, John, who also settled on the adjoining lot to Elisha a few years after his brother came there. Elisha d. Nov. 21, 1860; his wife d. Nov. 12, 1852.

JACOB CUMMINGS,⁷ (Daniel,⁶ Jacob,⁵ Joseph,⁴ John,³ Isaac,²¹) b. in Auburn, Mass., Jan. 12, 1770; m. Nov. 10, 1796, Mary Nye, of Berlin, Vt., where they res'd through life. He was a brother of Elisha above, and probably came to Vermont at or about the same time that Elisha did, for we find by the records of Berlin the following: "On Sept. 12, 1793, Parrott Hoadly, of Newbury, Vt., sold Jacob Cummings a lot of land, number six (6) in the second range containing 100 acres, consideration thirty (30) pounds lawful money." The time of his purchase would indicate that like his brother Elisha he spent three years in clearing up a portion of his purchase before he married and commenced housekeeping, participating in the early struggles of a pioneer life. DEA. JOHN CUMMINGS,⁷ (Ebenzer,⁶ David,^{5,4} John,³ Isaac,^{2,1}), b. in Woburn, Mass., Feb. 12, 1785; m. May 2, 1811, Marcia, dau. of Jacob and Ruth (Wright) Richardson, b. June 26, 1793. One record says he was of West Cambridge; he probably rem. there after 1817, if he was there(?). He was a tanner in Woburn, also his son John; he d. June 8, 1867; she d. June 8, 1822.

CHILDREN: Born in Woburn, Mass.

- i. John,⁸ b. Oct. 19, 1812; m. Feb. 9, 1837, Sarah, dau. of James and Sarah Phillips, of Swampscott, who d. Feb. 9, 1877, aged 63 years, and on the fortieth anniversary of their marriage. A son was born in Dec., 1837, and lived but one day. He m. 2nd Aug. 25, 1881, Mary Phelps, dau. of Rev. John P. and Eunice Stanwood (Caldwell) Cowles, and widow of Dr. A. B. Hall, of Ipswich. He d. Dec. 21, 1898; she survived, (1899). She was b. in Oberlin, O., Aug. 5, 1839; he left no issue. Hon. John Cummings, in the words of the late Gen. Francis Walker, "one of the most useful citizens of his native Commonwealth," was largely self-taught, but possessed naturally a strong will and powerful intellectual grasp, added to a large amount of good solid common sense, which, with his remarkable disinterestedness, in public life, his generosity, his severe integrity, and his kindness in personal intercourse, made him a power on any board of officers with which he was associated. He did much for the elevation and education of the workingmen in his employ and in the days when such schools were not publicly kept, he opened an evening school for their benefit at his expense. It is said that at one time, "Cummingsville" was a name better known in some parts of Ireland than the name Massachusetts. In addition to his business in the line of leather, and to the management of his large farm, he became interested in banks, and for thirty years was president of the Shawmut National Bank, of Boston. As an officer of the banks, National, and Savings, of his native town, he performed long and faithful and very efficient service. As a town officer, a member of the legislature, a trustee of the Public Library, and of Warren Academy, and as one of the school committee, he also performed signal and distinguished service. He was a member of the Centennial Board of Finance, which redeemed from failure, and conducted to a triumphant success, the Philadelphia Exhibition of 1876. His relations were most intimate with the Boston Society of Natural History, and in the department of science which this institution fitly represents he made acquirements, which, considering the occupation of his time by business cares and duties, were remarkable. To the Agricultural College at Amherst and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology he rendered inestimable services. Of the Institute of Technology he was for seventeen years the treasurer and a member from its organization, of the executive committee of the corporation. By a vote of the corporation in 1889, when he retired from the office of treasurer, Mr. Cummings's name was applied, in perpetuity, to the laboratories of mining engineering and metallurgy, in recognition of his services. He was a member of the board of directors of the New England Historic Genealogical Society for eighteen years, from 1871 to 1889. His ancestors, living in Woburn, were John, Ebenezer and David. The last named was of Andover in 1756, when he purchased a lot of land in Woburn. Hon. John Cummings occupied land owned by these ancestors, all pursuing the same trade as himself.

DR. SILAS CUMMINGS,⁷ (Thaddens,⁶⁵ Samuel,⁴ Thomas,³ Isaac,²¹) b. in Fitzwilliam, N. H., Oct. 7, 1803; m. May 2, 1827, Harriet Underwood, b. July 24, 1809, who d. July 30, 1863; he m. 2nd Mar. 21, 1864, Eliza (Poland) Simonds, dau. of Samuel and Thankful (Smith) Poland, and widow of Daniel Azro Simonds. She was b. Oct. 9, 1823. He is supposed to have worked on his father's farm in his younger days. He had a great desire for knowledge and improved every opportunity that offered to fit himself for his chosen profession. In 1827, he graduated from the Medical Department of Dartmouth college and commenced practice at once in his native town, which covered the long period of fifty-five years. He is said to have visited, in his profession, not only the 3rd and 4th, but in some instances the 5th generations of his patrons. His health was remarkable for a long course of years; he would read, or listen to the reading of some one, while riding that he might keep abreast of the times and be familiar with all the new discoveries in the healing art. In him the schools had a warm and earnest friend, and for many years he either superintended them or was an active member of the superintending board. He was found at the front in all needed improvements of his native town or in social or moral movements or debates. He held the office of postmaster for more than six years, and in 1874, represented Fitzwilliam in the State Legislature. He took great interest and assisted in the history of his native town, and d. June 30, 1882, his funeral being held in the Town Hall in the presence of one of the largest assemblies ever convened in Fitzwilliam.

graduated at Oberlin College, 1862; Union Army, Rank Captain, 1862-5; President Tidioute Pa. School Board, 1880, to present. Delegate from Pa. to Republican National Convention, 1888; member Senate State of Pa., 1899 to 1903; elected 1904 to 1906; Department Commander of Pa. G. A. R., 1895-6. He is also vice-president, and acting president of the Tidioute Pa. Savings Bank, and a director of the Warren Trust Company, of Warren, Pa. He is president of a large lumber and mining company in Grandin, Mo., with a paid in capital of five hundred thousand dollars, and a capacity for an annual output of sixty million feet of lumber. "On the eve of honorable and distinguished graduation at Oberlin College, Ohio, H. H. Cumings closed his text books and abandoned his studies; his habiliments of the Senior Class were supplanted by the blue uniform of the Union soldier, and when commencement day came his degrees were conferred, and this young student enjoyed the pleasures of graduation as he stood in line of battle near Lexington, Kentucky. Three months after enlistment he was detached from his regiment and assigned to duty as First Lieutenant of Parson's Battery which was practically destroyed at the battle of Perryville, fifty per cent. of the men being killed and wounded. He was then assigned to duty on the staff of Col. A. S. Hall, Commanding Brigade, and soon after on that of Brig. Gen. E. H. Hobson. Returning to his regiment, March, 1863, he participated in every campaign, skirmish and battle in which it was engaged: Louisville, Perryville, Milton, Hoover's Gap, Tullahoma, Chickamauga, Chattanooga, Lookout Mountain, Missionary Ridge, Tunnell Hill, Buzzards Roost, Resaca, Burnt Hickory, Lost Mountain, Kennesaw Mountain, Peach Tree Creek, Atlanta, Jonesboro, and "With Sherman to the sea" are among the personal experiences of Comrade Cumings. He was promoted to Captain after Missionary Ridge and assigned to Company K (105th Ohio Volunteers), which he commanded there-after until mustered out June 3rd, 1865, when Pennsylvania's fertile fields gave him a welcome, and since then, his home, his social and business relations, and his every association have been in the Keystone State." He has for several years been interested in the Cummings family and furnished much information in regard to his branch of the family. He res. in Tidioute, Pa.

UNCONNECTED CUMMINGS FAMILIES.

The following named Cummingses, and families, are found among the earliest records, but their connection with Isaac does not appear, although they lived at, or about, the same time.

Edward Comins, b. 1607, shipped for Virginia in the "Assurance," in 1635, and settled in Jamestown, Virginia.

Richard Cummings was an early settler in Biddeford, Me. He married, before 1647, Eleanor Bonython, dau. of Capt. Richard Bonython, and after the death of her father they removed to Saco and settled near Little River.

He was probably of Scotch descent. His name appears on the records until 1675. He died in Scarborough in 1676, leaving a son, Thomas, one of the administrators of his father's estate; there was also a daughter, named Elizabeth, who became the wife of her cousin, John Foxwell, son of Richard Foxwell and Winnifred Bonython, and they had two children; afterwards she married John Harmon, her first husband living but a short time after their marriage.

Richard Cummings lived at one time at the Isle of Shoals, and removed to Massachusetts, and resided in Salem, and was banished for Antinomianism, and returned to Maine, where he purchased a large tract of land.

He also purchased land in Portsmouth, N. H., in connection with Thomas Turpin, from Francis Williams, of Portsmouth, in December, 1645.

There are many of his descendants in Exeter county, N. H., at the present time.

Jane, or Joan, Cummings made will in 1644. (See Hinman's Connecticut Early Settlers.)

David Cummings, and wife Elizabeth, of Dorchester, Mass., in 1664, she died in 1689. He died Dec. 12, 1690.

CHILDREN :

- i. David, born 1671, died in infancy.
- ii. David, born 1672.
- iii. Philip, born 1674.
- iv. Elizabeth, born 1676.
- v. James, born 1678.

William Cummings was in Salem in 1637. He was a supporter of Wheelwright, and disarmed that year. (See Savage's Genealogical Dictionary.)

John Cummings and wife, Mary (Lee?), of Charlestown Village (Woburn), born in 1668, and died April, 1751, and the following families trace directly to them, and I might have collected a large number more, but after ascertaining that I was unable to make any connection with the Isaac line, I took no minutes of those I found, which I readily saw belonged on this "John" line.

It will be noticed that "John" was contemporaneous with the grandchildren of Isaac, the emigrant, and it is my belief that he was a descendant of William, of Salem above.

Many hundreds of his descendants could be very readily gathered here in New England.

The genealogy of "Woburn John" and his descendants follow :

“WOBURN JOHN.”

JOHN CUMMINGS,¹ b. —, 1668; m. —, Mary (Lee?). “He was of ‘Charlestown Village,’ Woburn, Jan. —, 1709; he bought 150 acres of land in Mashamuckituck, now Promfret, Conn., and in 1713, was one of the twenty-three first townsmen; Jan., 1717, he bought land in Thompson Parish, Conn., and later at Chestnut Hill, and in 1719, he came to Oxford, Mass., having purchased the “old mill” at the south end of “Oxford Plain.” He is believed to have improved this property and raised or rebuilt the dam, as by an agreement 29 Dec., 1719, Richard Moore, Thomas Hunkins and Ebenezer Humphrey, owners of the meadows above, bound themselves to allow him to raise the water over their land each year from Sept. 1 to May 1 as long as he saw fit. [Recorded at Worcester in 1794, proving it to have been valid 75 years afterward.] In 1723 he deeded land on Prospect Hill to his son Jacob, and in 1724 another lot to his son Stephen. He was a man of character and intelligence, a constituent member of the church, active in public affairs, chairman of selectmen, and also town clerk in 1721, '23 and '24. On Oct. 20, 1724 or '25, his wife Mary died, and in 1726 he sold his mill and returned to Thompson, Conn. In 1728 he was master workman in hewing and framing the first meeting-house.” [Miss Larnerd.] He was styled John, Senior, in 1719; he d. Apr. 10, 1751, aged 83 years. His son Stephen appears to have been with him at the mill, and returned with him to Killingly, Conn. John and Stephen Comins were witnesses of the will of Joseph Chamberlain in March, 1721.

The following family has caused me much research, but I have failed to find sufficient record evidence to place it among the known descendants of Isaac, the emigrant, but there is much record and strong circumstantial evidence, tending to show quite conclusively that it is thus: Nathaniel Andrew, or Andrew Nathaniel Cummings,⁶ (Joseph,^{5,4} John,³ Isaac,^{2,1}). There was also a Pearley Cummings,⁷ (who would be a cousin) who removed from Massachusetts to Uniontown, Pa., in the adjoining county of Fayette, which fact is established by two letters written by his wife in 1819 and 20, to their relatives in Massachusetts which are in my possession. (See 63, Page 85, and v. Page 199); but I leave it among those whose connection is untraced.

NATHANIEL OR ANDREW CUMMINS,¹ b. about 1741; m. ——— Catherine ———, b. in Ireland. He lived and d. in Carmichaels, Green Co., Penn., in 1836-7; aged 93 to 95 years.

CHILDREN:

- i. Benjamin,² b. Feb. 22, 1784; drowned Aug. 19, 1836.
- ii. Jephtha,² b. ———.
- iii. William,² b. ———; m. ———, Ruth Finch.
- iv. Andrew,² b. ———; went to Ohio about 1832.
- v. Millie,² b. ———.
- vi. Delliah,² b. ———.

There also was another son named Nathaniel, who was a half brother to the above named children, whether older or younger than these is unknown, or whether the mother was a previous or later wife, but Thomas Layton Cummins,³ a grandson of Andrew (now living 1904), remembers the fact of there being such a child in the family; and was a half brother. The age of Andrew at the birth of Benjamin would make it more probable that Nathaniel was an older child by a wife previous to "Catherine"; also the old custom of naming the first male child for the father adds another link to the circumstantial chain.

The following family, and its descendants, have baffled all the researches I have been able to bring to bear on the subject and I am forced to leave it as it appears for others to extend their investigations, hoping they will be more successful than I have been in connecting them with the descendants of Isaac the emigrant, where they undoubtedly belong.
